

application 2022/5568/P

I am dismayed to learn today that a planning application has been logged with Camden Council that contains very specific calculations concerning my personal home (39 College Crescent) whilst Camden Council didn't feel it necessary to approach the owners/ tenants of the affected properties to make them aware of this application.

This new development will severely impact the quality of lives of four families who's homes will be robbed of large amounts of daylight as the building is much taller than adjacent buildings. Even more concerning is that the new development will infringe on the privacy we would expect to have in our homes as all the windows of the rear facade of the proposed building will look straight into our bedrooms and living rooms.

Please could you explain to me how a planning application that specifically affects a large number of private homes (which are mentioned and assessed in the planning application) can be processed without making the affected and discussed parties aware?

I appeal to you, to reassess this application and to review how neighbourhoods are made aware of applications that have a massive impact on them.

Kind regards
