Do you have any comments or consider that the proposal is harmful to or does not preserve the character and appearance of the conservation area?

No objection The rear elevation of this terrace house was altered drastically and subject of an enforcement after it was revealed and completed some years ago; it was then allowed. Elsworthy Terrace has original small dormers, new larger ones and at least one with a terrace (no. 13). There is therefore precedent for the addition of a large dormer and, because there has sadly been no uniformity of design over the years, neither for the front or rear roofline, there can be no objection to the present application.
