Description of Proposed Works

Please describe the proposed works

We have recently installed air source heat pumps at our (now former) home at 47 Queens Grove, in conjunction with the works carried out as per the 2019/3665/P planning permission for the site. Throughout the works we paid great attention to the green credentials of the site, namely by installing double glazed windows, installing extra roof and wall insulation, and adding a green roof to the front garden shed etc. Late on in the build process we also decided to switch the gas heating to air source heat pumps, and we sited the unit at the rear of the back garden, in the least intrusive space possible. We initially thought the pumps would comply with permitted development regulations, and we do on all other points, apart from the volumetric size of the unit. The main NIBE 16kW unit (required due to the size of the property) is 0.75m3 which takes us slightly above the 0.6 allowed automatically.

To that end, I attach here the site drawings for your perusal as well as our recently commissioned noise survey which states the unit currently produces a noise level 8db below the ambient noise at the house wall. Is it correct that I understand it must be 10db below ambient noise? It seems unclear whether the noise level threshold is 10db or only 5db below ambient noise given that this unit is only on for a handful of hours per day on average, and mostly at cold temperatures.

We have however already installed an acoustic enclosure, and the unit indeed does not produce noise you can register at the rear of our property or that of our neighbour (>19m away), but the acoustic engineer in his report attached does suggest some further works to reduce the noise level to 11db below. To pre-empt the possible planning requirements we have now gone and implemented his recommendations, which have further reduced the noise heard at close proximity. As part of this application I attach photos to that end as well.

I look forward to hearing whether this is considered sufficient. The ASHPs have greatly improved the green credentials of the house and if these units do not receive planning permission we would have to rewire the house to gas heating, which would be a great shame. We hope you will consider this application favourably.
