I was dismayed at the scale of the plans originally submitted for these five buildings. They were completely inappropriate and planning was rightly refused by yourselves.

To my amazement I see that they have reapplied for the same buildings in four separate applications presumably in the hope that if one is approved it might set a precedent for the remaining applications. I urge you to consider these four applications as one.

It is also concerning that despite not having planning permission work has been underway for several months evidenced by looking from my neighbours house at the garden in question, the perpetual sound of the building works and a huge crane necessary to lift building materials over the house and into the garden. Why has Camden not stopped this work until the planning issues have been resolved?
