

Dear David

I would like to endorse the objections made to the erection of the portacabins in Argyle Square made by the Friends in their letter of 10 January. In addition to the Friends' well-made objections, I wish to add that the portacabins create dark spaces with very poor sightlines, which is something of an issue here given the ongoing drug dealing, drug taking and prostitution. For this reason, safety primarily, I don't like walking past them at night up that edge of the square, or going into the garden any more. I don't know how this fits into the planning framework but it seems like a real issue to me.

With best wishes,
