2024/0993/P	Emma Bevan	10/05/2024 11:49:20	COMMNT	I cannot think of a better home for a theatre based company like Cirque du Soleil, and the revenue it will bring to the area will be huge from employment to hospitality industry and the restaurants including footfall for all the smaller shops. Tourism will have a massive impact.
2024/0993/P	Joel	10/05/2024 13:29:58	SUPPRT	The project will bring thousands more visitors to Central London, supporting local businesses in the Covent Garden, Soho and Chinatown area. The project will also bring ? 125 permanent full time jobs ? £12.6m Gross Annual Value Added generated within the Greater London Economy ? £23m potential linked trip spend by theatre goers per annum... Supporting hospitality businesses in the area
2024/0993/P	Tait miller	10/05/2024 21:59:10	SUPPRT	I think this would be a massive boost to the London culture scene !!!
2024/0993/P	Ellie Chadd	10/05/2024 14:03:22	COMMNT	I support
2024/0993/P	Liam O'Keefe	10/05/2024 14:07:19	COMMNT	Support
2024/0993/P	Martina Nardari	13/05/2024 08:54:25	COMMNT	I would love to see this happening, especially the restoration of the theatre.
2024/0993/P	Tom Onions	11/05/2024 09:54:58	SUPPRT	Support!
2024/0993/P	Morgan Hayes	12/05/2024 13:20:44	PETITNOBJ E	I was dismayed to see the plans for the garish extension upwards of the Odeon Cinema . Like many people I cherish the Phoenix Gardens and the impaired outlook and light resulting from this would be devastating. Will you please consider adapting the plans as there is not a lack of hotels in central London .

2024/0993/P	John Doe	10/05/2024 10:33:26	OBJ	I just discovered this space last night whilst out with a friend. We chose to meet at Outernet London Charing Cross Rd (which is a really cool space BTW, good job London) in order to check out the Banksy exhibition then grab some food & drinks. Somewhere, sometime I needed to get away from the main roads. As it was a glorious spring evening, there were people everywhere, happy, having lots of fun creating lots of noise and hectic environment. It was really nice to see, but as a human on the spectrum without my noise cancelling headphones on, it started to take an emotional toll on me... That is until we happened to see this beautiful garden in the middle of the city. Peering through the fence, we were jealous of the residents who had access to this space. Lots of greenery, rolling (mini) hills, flowers, plants & seating. Then we turned the corner and noticed there was a gate, it was open and I noticed a poster with words. "Community" & "save" are the only ones I can recall, but the QR code brought me here. I have never really signed a petition, let alone written a formal objection to a council, but felt obliged this time. Please consider what a space like this can assist with people like me. 5 minutes sitting here calmed me down, anxiety left me. My heartbeat slowed down, I didn't feel like shouting at people, or worse hitting someone. I wasn't angry or upset with the world. We simply got up and proceeded to walk through the masses again in order to get some food and at this point desperately in need a nice cold beer. PS: apologies for the bad grammar & spelling, it's been a while since I written anything more than a sentence or two :)
2024/0993/P	Tim Lau	11/05/2024 09:16:18	SUPPRT	What a brilliant idea to bring Cirque de Soleil to London. One of my favourite family friendly shows which will bring lots of visitors to London, and increase job opportunities, footfall and trade for many small businesses in the area. We definitely support these plans.
