2024/2080/A	Covent Garden Community Association (form completed by Amanda Rigby, Co-Chair)	19/06/2024 23:26:26	COMNOT	It is difficult to tell whether the sign is truly hanging, from the drawings. If the sign is truly hanging then CGCA has no objection. However, if the sign is attached to the bracket with rigid rods then we ask that these small elements are replaced with short chains in order to enhance the conservation area, and indeed the building itself. The Seven Dials Study guidance promotes hanging signs because of the historic ambience that they bring to a street, and this includes the slight sense of movement when a sign hangs from chains. See https://sevendialsc Covent Garden Study/specifications/shopfronts/fascia-hanging-signs/ Further, the benefit of sustainability (when a sign is replaced) is only gained if the sign is removable from its bracket, which is most easily done if it is attached by chains.
