Sam Frears is a [REDACTED] man with an extremely rare [REDACTED] condition.

[REDACTED]

Sam is not able to tolerate high environmental temperatures.

As one of Sam's attending doctors ([REDACTED]) I can confirm in times of hot weather where Sam has not had a temperature controlled environment, this has posed a number of serious management problems for his team.

I highly recommend there is the possibility to have air conditioning. Indeed I consider it is essential to maintain Sam's ongoing health and wellbeing. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] It has been largely due to the extensive and complex arrangements for his home management that he has remained alive during this period.
