Dear planners,

I wish to reiterate my objection to the application to fell and poison two plane trees at 8, Doughty Street.

I object, as before, because a sound technical case was presented for both the retention of the trees and the continued viability of the news to the rear (the EES). This could be done by modest structural intervention, constraining the tree roots and making a small adjustment in the rear wall. The report, commissioned and paid for by concerned local people, is I assume still on file?

We have support from our local councillors. We have valid technical advice for amelioration. The only alterations are the lapsed timetable and the death of the sitting tenant - suggesting a moment for reconsideration?

With regards,

Gillian Darley OBE
