RE: ZERO TO LANDFILL

Dear Andy,

I am writing to confirm our company wide policy that where possible, we recycle and recover all material removed from all of our sites.

These soils/waste products are used to produce recycled and washed aggregates or restore old farmland or quarries, ensuring we are working to a Zero to Landfill protocol.

There are exceptions to this ie, Japanese knotweed removal and untreatable hazardous muck containing asbestos, but this is 1% of what we move per annum, and as yet, hasn't effected any of the works we have carried out for Coleman.

Regarding Hadley Street, Camden, NW1, 100% of all material removed from this site was recycled and recovered.

Let me know if you need any more information.

Yours sincerely

DANIEL MCSWEENEY
