Hello,

Re: Planning application 2024/3713/P

We've recently found out that [redacted] intend to enlarge the second floor of their property, and we are worried about the impact the development will have on the amount of light entering our main bedroom.

[redacted], the only windows in our main bedroom are both on the side of the house, directly facing number 46. At the moment, the room is very gloomy, but we have access to a small area of sunlight in the mornings, and we believe this sunlight will be blocked by the proposed second floor extension.

We would be happy to share photographs of the affected room if needed.

Is there a process by which we can submit our comments, so they can be taken into account before planning permission is granted?

Thanks, and best wishes,

Andrew Sime and Sabine van Vugt
