Dear Sarah

I would like to add a comment re the above. I see that my previous comment is already on the planning site.

All comments that I make are related to ensuring that the development is in keeping with the 'South Hampstead Conservation Area Character Appraisal and Management Strategy' and the strategy's objectives.

Please find attached a copy of the Tree Protection Photos & Current Garden document which was supplied to the Council at the time of the redevelopment of 80 Greencroft Gardens. Here you can see that in fact there is a loss of garden land.

Below you will also find two photos, the first taken at night, to show the 'glow' that the 'pergola' gives off at night, and the second during the daytime.

I would be grateful if you can add these to the comments regarding the planning permission.

Yours
G Power

80 Greencroft Gardens Tree Protection- Replanting Photos.

Garden prior work commencing. Only conifer tree left of photo was removed.

The garden during the build. Only the lawn area was used by the contractors. The flower beds along both sides and the rear were untouched. The trees at the rear were untouched and can be inspected if required.

Garden Prior to turf being re-laid.

Garden presently.
