I would simply like to write in response to the planning application for my neighbour's house and the air conditioning units on the roof.

I have no objections what-so-ever. The unit cannot be seen from the street level so are totally unobtrusive from the road; I have never been disturbed by the mechanism.

It also must be said that these houses are flat roofed and the heat of the sun is very hard to manage in the midsummer. So much so, that the upstairs rooms of those houses with flat roofs within the mews become unbearably hot and it must be said virtually uninhabitable.

I hope this comment will be taken into account when the matter comes before the planning committee Many thanks Caroline Powell
