Grounds for Application

Information about the existing use(s)

Please explain why you consider the existing or last use of the land is lawful, or why you consider that any existing buildings, which it is proposed to alter or extend are lawful

As set out at Section 55(1) of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990, planning permission is only required for proposals which constitute "development", which includes operational development and making a material change of the use of land. The proposed amalgamation of two dwellings into a single dwelling is not development, as defined by Section 55 of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990, since the proposal does not constitute a material change of use, and no building operations are proposed.

Please list the supporting documentary evidence (such as a planning permission) which accompanies this application

Existing and proposed plans/elevations and Covering Letter.

Select the use class that relates to the existing or last use.

Information about the proposed use(s)

Temporary

Why do you consider that a Lawful Development Certificate should be granted for this proposal?

The proposal results in the loss of a single dwelling and does not result in the loss of any residential floorspace. As such, the proposal does not constitute a material change of use and therefore is not development, as defined by Section 55 of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 (as amended).
