What was the original application type?

Householder planning permission

For the purpose of calculating fees, which of the following best describes the original development type?

S Householder development: Development to an existing dwelling-house or development within its curtilage

Other: Anything not covered by the above category

Non-Material Amendment(s) Sought

Please describe the non-material amendment(s) you are seeking to make

We received planning permission to replace the existing casement window with a double-glazed timber window. However, after a closer look, we believe it should be replaced with an aluminium frame window to match the sliding doors on the same floor.

Please state why you wish to make this amendment

The existing casement window is not made of timber, and the dormer itself was a later addition, not part of the original house's historic fabric.

In keeping with the approach of preserving authentic historical elements, we propose that the original sash windows remain timber however, newer additions, such as this window, are in aluminium.

Aluminium windows are more durable, low-maintenance, and energy-efficient, making them a practical and sustainable choice for contemporary elements of the property.

This distinction ensures that genuine historical features are preserved, while newer components are designed for longevity and efficiency, without compromising the overall character of the conservation area.
