This ramp houses the entrance to a nursery (where young children attend) and QCCA which runs a programme of activity for older people. So two vulnerable groups of people, many not steady on their legs, regularly use this ramp. At best the removal of the kissing gates will enable bikes, e scooters and skateboarders to speed down. At worse BMX bikers and skateboarders will use the stairs for jumps. There are kissing gates all over Gospel Oak open space to stop this happening, why provide for it to happen on the path with the greatest concentration of vulnerable users? Why introduce steps and narrow the path when everywhere else steps are being replaces by ramps? The green wall needs a maintenance contract otherwise it will wither and die. |
