Biodiversity and Geological Conservation
ls there a reasonable likelihood of the following being affected adversely or conserved and enhanced within the application site, or on land adjacent to or near the application site?
To assist in answering this question correctly, please refer to the help text which provides guidance on determining if any important biodiversity or geological conservation features may be present or nearby; and whether they are likely to be affected by the proposals.
a) Protected and priority species
<ul><li>Yes, on the development site</li><li>Yes, on land adjacent to or near the proposed development</li><li>No</li></ul>
b) Designated sites, important habitats or other biodiversity features

c) Features of geological conservation importance
<ul><li>Yes, on the development site</li><li>Yes, on land adjacent to or near the proposed development</li><li>No</li></ul>
Supporting information requirements
Where a development proposal is likely to affect features of biodiversity or geological conservation interest, you will need to submit, with the application, sufficient information and assessments to allow the local planning authority to determine the proposal.
Failure to submit all information required will result in your application being deemed invalid. It will not be considered valid until all information required by the local planning authority has been submitted.
Your local planning authority will be able to advise on the content of any assessments that may be required.
Biodiversity net gain
Biodiversity net gain is a legal requirement for planning permission introduced on 12 February 2024. All applications are required to either provide detailed information proving there will be a biodiversity increase; or explain why the requirement does not apply to the development.
Find out more about biodiversity net gain, and access digital tools from our partners that can help determine if you are exempt, or produce the biodiversity metric information required.
Do you believe that, if the development is granted permission, the general Biodiversity Gain Condition (as set out in Paragraph 13 of Schedule 7A of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 (as amended) ) would apply?
○ Yes ⊙ No
Biodiversity net gain has been introduced as a general condition for planning permission. As set out in The Environment Act 2021 : "grants of planning permission in England [are] to be subject to a condition to secure that the biodiversity gain objective is met". Therefore, in England, all planning permissions are generally subject to biodiversity gain rules, unless they are specifically exempt or out of scope.

If you have stated that the biodiversity net gain requirement does not apply to your application you must provide the reason(s) why, and may also need to supply evidence (especially where you believe the application is eligible for the 'de minimis' exemption). You can use our partner's free online tool to determine if you are exempt and to produce detailed reasons Please add all the reasons why biodiversity net gain does not apply and enter a justification for each one Reason biodiversity net gain does not apply: Retrospective planning permission Please justify the reason why biodiversity net gain does not apply: There is no priority habitat which covers introduced planting of this nature or amenity grassland and lawns. A review of aerial images over time suggests these habitats have not recently been created to replace any priority habitats. It is our view that this first condition is met. The second condition is that less than 25 m2 of area habitat with a biodiversity value greater than zero and less than 5 m of linear habitat are impacted. The proposals do not include any change to the building footprint and only require consent due to seeking to continue the current use. The proposals show all areas of habitats with a biodiversity value greater than zero as defined in the Regulations to be retained. Additionally, there is no linear habitat present. It is therefore our view that the second condition is met. The conclusion is that the application is exempt from statutory net gain requirements. Note: Please read the help text for further information why developments may be exempt or not in scope.
