

Other Houses on the Street

This building has a structure on its roof that reaches the same height to the profile that I present.

The road has amazing trees which hide much of the building allowing them to be different.

The house opposite is higher on one side

The house left has three protruding windows to its side

Some houses have a high roof and are next to smaller buildings with a low roof

I will fit in protruding windows that match this one... This picture is the house to the left of ours.

These 3 properties below lie next to each other and yet all are very different.
