View as Existing

- 6.82 This is a characteristic view of Camden High Street looking north from outside the tube station. As one progresses north, this stretch rapidly becomes dominated by shops and market activity of the 'Camden Lock' type, and during opening hours at least, it is people and commerce that dominate the view rather than the buildings on either side of the road, which are typical Victorian terraces, substantially altered or overlaid with signs of commercial activity in many cases.
- 6.83 The buildings in the foreground lie in the Camden Town CA.
- 6.84 The view is of minor to moderate sensitivity to change.

View as Proposed

- 6.85 The upper part of Building A1 will just be visible from this point, at the end of the street above the buildings on the right, but not prominent from here.
- 6.86 This is a negligible change to the view, of minor significance. The effect is long-term and neutral.
