View as Existing

- 6.121 The Palace of Westminster can be seen from this point, through a gap between tall buildings on either side.
- 6.122 This is a view of substantial sensitivity to change in respect of the visibility of the Palace of Westminster, because the view is designated (although the view of the Palace of Westminster is not of good quality).

View as Proposed

- 6.123 The Development will be almost entirely obscured by the foreground trees in summer. Some of the upper parts of the Development will be seen through the trees in winter. There will be no effect on the ability to see the Palace of Westminster from this point.
- 6.124 This is a negligible change to the view, of minor significance. The effect is long-term and neutral.
