APPENDIX A – RELEVANT EXPERIENCE FOR NHR JOINERY

NHR Joinery Ltd

NHR Joinery Limited is now in its 3rd year of trading following the demise of Linford Group Ltd in October 2011. Linfords were a restoration company working on historical buildings all over the UK.

I was the joinery manager at Linfords and responsible in working closely with architects/clients to achieve their requirements and producing high quality joinery that was sympathetic to the historical buildings that were worked upon over many years.

At NHR Joinery we have now established ourselves as a high quality bespoke joinery manufacturer that has over 125 years combined joinery experience in our field and pride ourselves in providing an excellent service.

We work for a number of Restoration Contractors in the Midlands and London area and have worked closely with Fairhurst Ward Abbotts Ltd for the last couple of years on a number of their projects. These projects have been spread across the Midlands Division, London Residences & the Cambridge Division.

To the left is the carved bracket detail for the cut strings to the staircase that is shown above. All associated elements of the staircase were completed by us when we were working for Linfords. At NHR Joinery we still continue to work closely with all of the tradesmen that were used to produce this lovely staircase - from the timber suppliers to the carvers and French Polishers.

NHR Joinery has continued to work on projects that require the same quality as shown above with the staircase.

Sarcophagus completed for Stowe House Preservation Trust this month (April 2014)

We worked very closely with the architect to replicate the sarcophagus as shown above and to the right as this was commissioned to replace the original one that had been removed many years ago. The only information to work from was one very old and blurred photograph.

Finchingfield Guildhall Library for Fairhurst Ward Abbots Ltd

The project above was completed for Fairhurst Ward Abbots Ltd last year and incorporated new bespoke units to match original units, carefully selecting the timber and using the french-polishers for final matching of colour and finish.

NHR Joinery Ltd have worked and continue to work on a number of projects for clients that require confidentiality. We consider this to be very important and totally respect the client's wishes.

Therefore we do not market or divulge any information in relation to any of these projects as requested.

Hopefully the information supplied above gives a small insight into the works we are capable of manufacturing.

If any other information is required do not hesitate to contact me.

In addition NHR Joinery are now approved by Constructionline and four reference sheets showing feedback are included for further evidence of Client satisfaction in the field of conservation joinery.

The reference sheets are included in the following pages.

Quality of work was excellent from day 1. With a contract of this size there will always be a snagging issue on certain items. With this in mind whenever there was NHR doubt with these quickly to allow progression on site. Good company.
