2014/2176/P	David J Simpson	38 Northview Tufnell Park Road London	14/04/2014 19:49:17	OBJNOT	As a gay man resident in North London, the Black Cap is one of the few gay bars that still exists outside of Soho. What sets the bar apart is the open space on the first floor bar that is proposed to be turned into flats. The dance floor on the ground is awful, but the first floor is the greatest asset of the bar. If the proposals go ahead, this would be a great loss to our community, that is under provided for outside of Central London.
2014/2176/P	Ben Giddins	Flat 1 124 Fortress Road London NW5 2HP	15/04/2014 12:08:22	OBJ	The Black Cap in Camden is an historic and culturally significant building both generally within the landscape of Camden Town, and more specifically in the social and cultural memory of the LGBTQ community in and around London. Although the proposed changes would leave the downstairs club setting open, part of The Black Cap's cultural significance is in its ability to provide a space to meet throughout the day in the upstairs bar area, and to provide a wide variety of events which can appeal to those who would prefer not to solely attend a club setting. To remove this vitally important part of the venue from the local LGBTQ community would invalidate the cultural heritage of The Black Cap as a potentially safe space for patrons throughout the year, and would be damaging to the historical legacy of LGBTQ activity in the venue. On top of this, extra housing space in this area would cause an excess of traffic on an already extremely busy road, and would present concerns for parking within the area. Furthermore, some of the proposed living quarters would be placed directly above a club setting, which would suggest a concerning level of noise pollution for those residents. In conclusion, the proposed Residential Conversion of the upper floors of The Black Cap will have an impact on the wider stands of living within the local area, as well as a profound negative impact on the local LGBTQ community in and around Camden itself.
