Sorry for this late reply, but I have only just returned today after being away for a few weeks. I was shocked and horrified at news of the proposed work to be carried out. This is a very old house with wooden floor boards. It was built around 1800 or 1900. I live on the ground floor. There are cracks in my walls because of the movement of the house. It is very unsafe. No other house in the street has a basement excavation. I am 67 years old and live alone and at home all the time. My health is not good and I suffer from depression. This will only drive me over the edge. Because of the wooden floor boards, I already find it very stressful because I can hear literally everything that's going on downstairs, normal conversations, TV, radio, snoring, etc. The noise, dirt and duration of the excavation would be totally unbearable for me and I will find it impossible to live.

They are doing it so they can sell it for a profit. They told me when they bought the flat in November 2013 they would rent it out for a few months until Summer when they will do the place up and sell it. But they told me it was only a single storey rear extension.

Please I am begging you, please don't grant permission for excavation to create a basement extension. It would make me suicidal, I simply would not be able to cope.
