For the attention of Mr. Christopher Heather,

Dear Mr. Heather,

I write to you in this way as your website is still subject to 'Essential Maintenance', as it has been throughout the weekend (including Saturday morning), but this message only appears when one has gone through the whole process of making comments on-line. When one is given a deadline, the fact that the best means of communicating is denied to one is far from acceptable, and doubtless other people have been as frustrated as me. As such will you please extend the deadline beyond the 21 days from your letter of 11 March?

My comments are as follows: Am opposed to any changes in the original planning permissions where they impact on any element of the original building which has had to be demolished. Details on line are unclear but solar panels look to be unsightly from ground level and out of keeping with the other 19C buildings in this part of the road. In a CONSERVATION AREA, like should be replaced by like, with no unnecessary innovations. Please decline the proposals.

Please acknowledge receipt of this message.

Yours sincerely,

David Boulton
