I am a regular user of the heath and feel that athlone house is a distinctive and valuable part of the heritage of the community that I live in. I don't believe the new building will provide anything of the heritage value of athlone house or something of similar aesthetic quality. I am strongly opposed to the demolition of athlone house. secondly I find it a terrible precedent when people agree to things that they find not convenient to fulfill should they be let off the hook - the commitment was made to restore the house - it is the right thing to do and the commitment should be honoured.
