Dear Camden Planning,

I am writing to you in regards to the potential closing of Triyoga in Primrose Hill at 6 Erskine.

Triyoga has been an institution to this area since its inception. The closing of this studio will be catastrophic from an economic point of view as the majority of the shops thrive (and have opened as they are today) due to the type of person that is spending time in this area. Further, these are good people who tend to take care of their surroundings! We need all our areas to attract such people who take pride in taking care of the area and people around them.

I am certain you are getting so many letters such as this so I will keep this short. Please seriously consider the long term impact a short sighted decision such as a closing of a real destination and home Triyoga Primrose Hill is to so many. There will of course be tax proceeds from the council tax and collections of changing the current site into residential; however, it will by no means surpass the regular tax flow this area is currently bringing the government by its local and current patrons in its commercial standing. Closing this studio would be yet another example of short sited gains w/ little to zero consideration of the loss that will surely happen in taking up such an action.

Please consider this decision from a long term view at both the economic, atmospheric and emotional level. Do you not wish to live in a world that is filled with truly happy people that are contributing to the community around them? Or do you prefer the view that takes decisions from a short sited profit perspective only - a let's just collect the money and run ethos - , which in essence leaves people and the world around them empty, devoid of meaning, unhappy... and altogether poorer at every level.

This is written by a self made individual and family member - not by a hippy with no real means of income or a starving artist. I am a fiscally responsible person and I take great pride in this as I believe it is a part of a responsibility to our culture and society.

Sincerely yours,
