I support the application because this flight of dangerous steps presents a positive threat to life and limb. There is nothing to hold on to on either side when descending in winter and the steps are covered with ice. A mere inch or two of snow obliterates the cracked and broken steps making it impossible to know where to put one's foot. The steps are of different height and different depth and the stair-case itself is curved. This lack of uniformity is made even more dangerous due to sheer neglect over a period of years. From Sept 1967 to the present day - a span of 46 years - there has been not one scrap of maintenance or repair carried out on the steps to my certain knowledge. Their dilapidated & broken condition is a positive disgrace to any conservation area. Here is a golden opportunity for Camden's Health & Safety Team and Camden's conservation team to UNITE & speak as one voice - "make the steps safe & repair & maintain them as befits this conservation area!"
