Dear Aysegul,

My wife and I support the application for planning permission under reference 2013/4203/P in relation to 25 Howitt Road.

These houses are all in need of renovation due to their slow and steady descent into the earth. We live within the same building and are aware of the potential that subsidence could cause. An excavation of the type proposed would improve the stability of the existing building as well as those adjacent while at the same time not impacting the already congested street as this is merely an extension rather than an additional unit.

We have lived on this street for over four years now and find these projects common, this particular project will maintain the character of the street. This is an extension of existing basement space that has been carefully put together and deserves encouragement.

Kind Regards,

Max von Rettig

Dear Sir/Madam,

I strongly object to the proposed basement excavation as it will further destabilise our road which is already sliding down the hill.

No objections to the ground floor plans.
