Dear Sirs

Proposed new Halls for London University

I am writing to record my strong objection to the proposed new building which is currently seeking planning permission. I suggest that the building is far too large and will dominate the immediate area. The increase in student accommodation is disproportionate to the increased size of the building which appears to be designed more for conference facilities than student bedrooms. The surrounding streets and facilities are not suitable for a large influx of conference attendees.

I would be particularly concerned if any new building were to have direct access onto Sandwich Street as this would fundamentally alter what is at present a quiet residential road with some reasonably attractive Georgian and Victorian buildings.
