

Application ref: 2013/2171/P Associated ref: 2013/2337/L

Dear Mr. Fowler,

I previously emailed you with my objections to the planning application regarding 28 Gloucester Crescent AND 29, Gloucester Crescent. It seems obvious that the two planning applications are linked by ownership,  I have lived in Gloucester Crescent for nearly twenty seven years, and in that time I have seen the knocker-throughs come and go. Then the next lot of people arrive, and repeat more structural alterations. I was wondering how houses built on red clay, and dated 1850 can withstand these assaults over and over again before they succumb to collapsing?

If one factors in global warming, and also what we know of future climate change, the picture appears grim, unless we take positive action at the earliest possible date to curb, if not abolish planning applications in London as a whole.

Regarding 28, Gloucester Crescent I heard from your office (26th June 2013) that no planning decision had yet been made - yet the work in the basement and ground floor has already started. We

Yours sincerely,
Alice Landy,
