I object strongly to the addition of a terrace at 3rd floor level at the back of the property being opposite our houses (at bedroom level for us) on the grounds of privacy and noise nuisance. A terrace will not only extend the building line closer to our homes but also overlook them, while any noise from it will echo around the enclosed space in which it would be built. It seems very late in the day - the building is already up and at full height - for the developers to decide they have forgotten to include a terrace in their plans - and for them to decide to crowbar one in (ruining the curved design of the building) in this underhand fashion, out of sheer greed presumably.

Please do not allow this to happen.
