Dear Mr McEllistrum

I am writing because I understand that the University of London has lodged a planning application in respect of Cartwright Garden Halls.

UCL seeks to offer accommodation to first year undergraduates and a range of other students, and we experience high levels of demand, reflecting the cost, quality and availability of alternatives in the private sector. While we have just under 4000 bedspaces which we own and manage, we also make use of the accommodation offered by the University of London. We fully support the proposals for Cartwright Gardens, which will assist us in maintaining the supply of suitable accommodation available to our students.

Best wishes

Rex Knight
