My enquiry is

We have an ash tree in our garden which has previously been subject to the following works:

- a) 2008/1573/T May 2008 Crown lift to 5m above ground. Cut branches back to boundary line - no objections
- b) 2011/4814/T Oct 2011 Reduce upper crown back to previous reduction points - no objections

We now wish to continue to maintain the tree with the following work early in 2015:
Reduce back to previous reduction points and shape. Crown thin by 20%.

Do we need to go through the planning procedure again or, given that no objections have been raised in the past and no TPO, can we simply conduct the work without an application?

I look forward to your advice. Best wishes
Lara
