Dear Sir/ madam

I find it shameful that you are proposing to replace the fruit and veg stall at Kentish Town station with a restaurant.

The area has more than enough fast food chains, in fact through poor planning it seems that how you see the future of Kentish Town Road. Do all these unhealthy shops fit in with your health agenda? It seems completely hypocritical when looked at at the same time as the money you spend promoting healthy living.

The stalls sell cheap(er) fruit and veg than the supermarkets and are heavily used by local people.

This change certainly does not benefit local people.

Is it part of the gentrification process of driving working people out of the area?
