Dear Olivier Nelson

I appreciate that the time to submit a response to this public consultation is formally over. But I understand from one of your colleagues (2 January 2015) that Regeneration and Planning Development Management (LBC) considers all submissions received up until an application is determined.

Unlike the greater number of developments in this immediate vicinity over the last six to seven years, the work at 2-4 Prowse Place has been exemplary. The departures from regulations and agreements elsewhere have been a common occurrence. What is remarkable in this instance is that the owner / developer of 2-4 Prowse Place has sought consent where others would have just gone simply ahead without it. He deserves commendation for this.

The heightening of the parapet is no more than 3 bricks. Passers-by at street level would not notice this. It is barely perceptible from the adjoining terrace on Bonny Street, and neither my neighbours nor I would have noticed it had not been for the honesty of the owner / developer. Perhaps more significantly, the addition of less than 10 inches does not affect nor reduce the light to any property in the area.

I have every confidence that the heightening will be accepted, it having no real adverse affects.

With thanks,
