Your comments on the planning application

Grove Terrace is a notable Grade II* row of Georgian buildings in Camden which present an excellent example of architecture of this period. To excavate the front garden and demolish the original railings would surely be detrimental and destroy the symmetry of the front gardens.

The previous owner of No. 18 had the cellars under the front garden tanked and was able to use them for laundry purposes. If this facility is removed it will only increase the pressure for further development at the rear of the property.

Regarding the plans for the rear - there is already a building - a garage - at the end of the garden. A small extension at the rear would improve the kitchen which at present has little natural lighting, but surely the current proposals are on too large a scale for this size of house and would significantly impact on the historic 18th century layout of the gardens.
