Your comments on the planning application

I support the planning application for a banner advertising the West Hampstead Farmer's Market to go back between the trees on the forecourt of the market site. It is important as a community to support local businesses and farmers in the area, especially those that work ethically and organically. A market also creates a sense of community, which can be lacking in large cities such as London. I have noticed in recent weeks footfall has been waning at the market and it would be a absolute shame if producers wouldn't be able to keep coming, or the market would stop being held, because people simply didn't know about it

Your comments on the planning application

The banner has been displayed on the forecourt of the market space throughout the week, and this has been important for getting the market known and used. It is important for the market's future that the banner continues to be displayed, to tell people that it exists and when it is open. There are a lot of people passing through West Hampstead, and also many new local residents, all of whom could use the market if they know about it.

Your comments on the planning application	anything that can keep the local farmer market strong and healthy is necessary, there are plenty of small retail supermarkets with prepared food and just a few veg and fruit always imported from abroad but for fresh local produce there are not many options in the area

Your comments on the planning application	The Farmers Market is a valuable addition to the area and there is no reason why they shouldn't be able to have permanent signage, as do shops.

Your comments on the planning application

I am writing to give my full support to the application for the sign for the Farmers' Market to be displayed on a permanent basis in Iverson Road, Thameslink Station forecourt.

The market is very important for many local residents who wish to obtain fresh produce and can only do so in this market. Information on the market can only be disseminated widely and effectively if the sign is permanently displayed so that passers by will be made aware.

Your comments on the planning application

I am in support of a banner to promote the West Hampstead Farmers Market. The existence of this market is important to a very dense population area but people may still not be aware of it. Those of us who use it are very keen for it to continue. My family has certainly been healthier since we started buying seasonal, fresh vegetables.
