

Application No:	Consultees Name:	Consultees Addr:	Received:	Comment:	Response:
2015/1032/L	louise nathanson	16 church row ne36ip	25/03/2015 07:53:15	COMMNT	This seems an unnecessary and extreme footprint on an existing small lodge which in addition would not be in keeping with the existing area. The increase in traffic to the area, and the site would appear excessive.
2015/1032/L	Prof A M Weindling	22 Holly Hill London NW3 6SE	24/03/2015 23:29:53	NOBJ	As a neighbour and local resident, I would like to lodge my strongest objection to this proposed development. This building is part of old Hampstead and adds to the historic character of Hampstead. The proposed external alterations will alter its visual appeal enormously. It is likely to lose its charm, which is what makes Hampstead so attractive and a draw to tourists. These proposed changes, particularly to the present outbuilding will be permanent and unattractive. The area is beautiful and does not need 'landscaping'. Furthermore, the narrow streets will not be able to accommodate the considerable extra traffic of contractors' lorries.
2015/1032/L	Deborah Norton	3 Upper Terrace NW3 6RH NW3 6RH	24/03/2015 16:18:11	OBJ	I object to plans to demolish part of the Grade II Listed structure built under John Galsworthy's ownership and to greatly expand the front (east) elevation. The iconic image of Admirals House with a small bit of the historic farmhouse that is Grove Lodge framing it on the side will be lost forever. The McMansion that the new owners plan to build will forever destroy the view of these 2 houses that John Constable painted on 3 occasions. I also object to plans to build an "orangery" with a full basement in the garden. An orangery is a warm place, such as a green house, used to grow orange trees. This looks much more like a separate dwelling that could eventually be sold off as a separate residence.