2015/1032/L	John Richardson	8 West Heath Lodge Branch Hill NW3 7LU	25/03/2015 21:55:49	COMMNT	I object to this planning application. This is a listed building and should be treated as such. The planned basement is completely unnecessary. Traffic caused by the redevelopment would severely affect the area.
2015/1032/L	Frank Shields	24 Church Row Hampstead London NW3 6UP	25/03/2015 12:26:19	OBJ	The unique and exhilarating combination of Admiral's House and Grove Lodge is one of the greatest and most historical building sites in all of Europe. The Forsyte Saga was President John F. Kennedy's favourite book in his entire lifetime. And the TV series was one of the most popular in TV history. I have had the good fortune to live nearby on lovely Church Row, Hampstead since 1971 and there is no question in my mind that this combination is the most interesting and beautiful in all of the UK. As such, it would be extremely wrong to alter John Galsworthy's former home and where he wrote The Forsyte Saga. I am absolutely sure that it would be an awful mistake to allow the current exterior of Grove House to be changed in any way at all as it is a precious remembrance of one of the greatest authors of all time and one of the most gorgeous housing combinations with Admiral's House of anything I've ever seen in the entire world.
