I have had a careful look at the proposals from my neighbour at 93 Chetwynd Road and i write to support the application. The proposals, if built, would in my opinion be an improvement to the street front architecture and be a welcome replacement of the current entrance sideways infill at no. 93. It seems that it will be light and transparent and therefore the additional height seems fine, particularly as it sits well below ridge and parapet heights.

At the rear their proposed extension, although 2 stories, looks considerate and respectful to my own property. Importantly, we have been assured that the new extension will, on the side of our house at no. 95, in height not exceed the height of the garden wall in between our properties, and therefore the proposed extension does not cause us any loss of amenity. The materials look to me to sit well with our Victorian properties.

I urge you to give consent to their proposals.

Yours sincerely,

Martijn Bruins
