EXCLUSIVE CERAMIC CLINKER

With its classic smooth surface, this exclusive ceramic clinker is good for any building style – traditional with playful details, or modern with clear lines and forms. This beautiful surface is also available in noble grey and exclusive black.

No question: white houses are always a pleasing sight and not just in the sunny south. They have a noble and friendly, open and optimistic effect.

This impression lasts for as long as the white remains clean and flawless. Unfortunately, many white building materials become grey and unsightly after a few years.

Not so with the white Røben ceramic clinkers. They remain white in wind and weather. This is because they are fired from the best white-firing clays until vitrification. This means to complete compression of the ceramic material. As a result, they are practically moisture and dirt resistant "ex factory".

The special thing about the whites from Røben is not just the pure, through and through natural white, but equally the unique variety of the clinker surfaces. Whether silky smooth or lightly embossed, with broken edges or rustic scoring – each of them has typical characteristics, which, in the wall, add to the special form of expression. Thus, just as each of these individual ceramic clinkers is unique, the house itself cannot be compared to any other. Even something very special.
