Your comments

1) I am concerned about privacy. If a balcony is erected on rear floor it will overtake my roof terrace.

2) Also the noise of making such a change will affect my vocations (writing) as my study is on the rear extension of the mezzanine floor (ie. between raised ground level and the walls are the normal side to side the terrace walls. I hear noise frequently from 157 as it is. This will ~~be~~ no doubt be accelerated by building works. Please turn over. →

But the even more worrying is the possibility of movement to the side wall by the weight bearing needed for a balcony & the possibility of cracks and movement to the walls of 159 on the 157 joint side

With many thanks for consideration of these points.

Thank you.
