Pollarding, which does not appear to have been considered, would definitely be a better solution to keep it healthy and within bounds. For that reason alone the application must be wrong and should be rejected. The mature trees in the gardens in Lambolle Road and Belsize Park Gardens are a key feature of the area, and provide undisputed environmental as well as aesthetic benefits. They essential to maintaining the character and amenity of the area, and under no circumstances should be removed if they do not threaten the houses themselves. They obviously have to be kept under control, but that can easily be done without removing them altogether.
