- Prayer times fluctuate during the year especially March and October with changing the British summer time. When the time changes the centre management adapt the time table with the new prayer times. Events and activities also change to accommodate the fluctuating nature of the prayer times.
- Why do Islamic prayer times change from day to day?

The precise timing of Muslim prayers often vary by a few minutes each day, so that over the course of a year there is a wide range of prayer times. Some communities publish prayer "schedules" to keep track of the times, and specialized computer programs can also calculate the prayer times for each area, for each day of the year.

- Although Muslims pray at five appointed times each day our centre offers only those prayer that fall within the centre opening times. For example in the winter when the day is shorter all prayer times fall during the opening time of the centre. On the other hand in the summer the centre only offers three prayer times that fall during the opening hours of the centre. In other words dawn (Fajr or Morning) prayer is not offered in any circumstances be in the summer or in the winter. Similarly dusk (Maghrib evening) prayer is not offered during Summer time however in the winter time it falls during opening times.
