For the attention of Mr Jonathan McClue

Dear sir

I lived in Remsted House on Mortimer Estate about 12 years ago. I understand that there are plans to render the exterior walls. However, I really hope that the planners will not allow this.

Mortimer Estate has some nice features, including, its brickwork and curved walls. I think it would most certainly be a step in the wrong direction to cover over the brickwork and would ask you to please keep the buildings the way they are. Some of the houses surrounding the estate are large white rendered buildings. However, unlike these grand houses which are occupied by the wealthy, I would be concerned that the council would not always be able to decorate the buildings on Mortimer Estate although the brickwork is pleasant anyway.

I, therefore, object to the application.

Yours sincerely
Eleanor Davis
