Dear Mr Mclue,

I wish to object most strongly to the proposed cladding of my home.

The cladding is really ugly, and, according to my architect daughter-in-law, far too expensive.

The building is not cold and the cladding is unnecessary. From photographs I have seen, it deteriorates unacceptably quickly.

If it saved me £50 per annum in fuel bills, it would take 200 years at current prices before I benefitted from the £10,000 cost. This cost/benefit ratio is ridiculous!

The money can better be spent on things that really need doing.

The proposed work needs public scrutiny, so I would like to know who made the decision to undertake it. I would like to see details of contractors quotes, and a breakdown of the costs.

Yours sincerely,

Mrs Sylvia Cooray, 12 Haliwell House, London, NW6 5NN
