Logically this happens when temperatures rise and when the need to open windows increases. The noise is simply unbearable, adding more of these devices would be a nightmare for all the people who have windows/balconies overlooking this part of the building. We already suffer from deliveries every morning at 6.50am, the rubbish men coming at 7am, living here is already quite tiring noisy-wise, we should aim at reducing the number of decibels rather than pushing it up with such works.
