Your comments on the planning application

Extending the display of Frieze Art Fair sculptures in the English Garden sets a bad precedent for long term use of the park for commercial gain. The sculptures do not enhance, nor add to the setting of the parkland - rather they detract from it. They also negatively affect the setting of the Listed Buildings in the Outer Circle. The English Gardens are beautiful as they are and the addition of further structures to them detracts from the sense of the gardens as a composition and environment which is complete in its own right.
