My comments relate to the large Ash tree at the bottom of the garden. I see reference to 'Existing trees with TPO have been applied separately for permission to cut back' etc. (English??!) I have previously raised the question of this tree being cut down because it is too big and is pulling down the wall at the bottom of my garden with its roots. Further consideration should now be given to its removal 1. because it is now too big. 2. it is damaging walls etc and 3. it is an Ash tree and will almost certainly die soon anyway!
