Dear Vicky,

Thankyou for your call. I have also spoken to Elizabeth Beaumont and Matthias Gentet needs to be kept in the picture

As indicated, the siting of the extractor outlet seems to vary slightly on the different drawings; some of which appear to have been revised. However, the actual outlet is at the height of the windows of the first floor flats and any fumes will be blown into open windows and second floor terraces which would not be satisfactory. Residents were assured by Gails that there would be no smells. The fumes from cooked food early in the morning, referred to in recent Emails, are likely to have come from this unit.

It is evident that there is noise either from the extractor units, the airconditioning or indeed from the conservatory. Again Gails assured residents that they would not be disturbed by any of Gails activities

I attach a Gails menu. It is clear that the Company is in breach of its A1 Retail status. We would have opposed any suggestion of yet another restaurant, as opposed to a Bakery and Coffee shop.

I hope that there can be speedy action to resolve these issues. The tenants of the flats should not have to endure yet further problems. Residents were also assured that tables and chairs would not be put out before the store opened and that early deliveries would not cause any disturbance. Residents were assured that only bread and cakes would be baked on the premises but it is now understood that the bread is delivered from a central site and that the only baking should be of cakes plus the heating up of croissants, pastries, etc..

thanks

John M Slater

Hello Vicky,
Please find below a message I sent to Amelia Jarrett around midnight last night, when I arrived home to hear this completely unacceptable noise pollution into our home from the units in Gail's Bakery in Swain's Lane. Please note we will not accept this, and we ask for this matter to be dealt with as a matter of complete urgency.
Yours,
Valerie F. Doulton

Hi Em, I agree, I have just got home half an hour ago, and the noise at the rear of the building from the units in Gails is completely unacceptable.

Talk to you about this tomorrow. I will also forward this message to Barry tomorrow morning.

Best,

Valerie
